PRALINE ends in Rotterdam to learn about Dutch VET development

All the members of PRALINE have participated in the last PLA (Peer Learning Activity) of the European project 'Promoting Adult Learning in Networks', held on 30 November and 1 December in Rotterdam (The Netherlands). An end of a project organized by MBO Raad, the coordinating institution, which has collected all the previous work to present the results to the participants.

Three years after its inception, the Erasmus+ Key Action 3 project has completed the face-to-face working sessions with the importance of digitalization and initiatives that pursue the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), among other topics. During the sessions, the different speakers have presented solutions and good practices in Dutch VET, such as the improvement or retraining of workers' skills. Likewise, Ms. Rosalina Verwoerd, program manager of the Zadkine Logistics College, has explained the need to incorporate new technological trends in the development of professional skills, especially in Transport and Logistics training. Zadkine College is working together with two other Dutch Colleges on this project called "Jij Plus", and is planning to enlarge the methodology in the future to more colleges and other sectors.

Other activities and farewell to the project

This last meeting has presented the different points of views of the participating organizations on the topics discussed during the previous sessions: establishing integration and learning strategies for immigrant students, promoting learning in the workplace and the incorporation of Artificial Intelligence and Automation in the digital skills of future professionals, among others. In this way, they have managed to establish some aspects to work on in each country, with the aim of transferring the policies to the EUpVET network.

At the end of the conference, the European partners have analyzed the results and recommendations of the project through the 'PRALINE Survey Report' and have made a final evaluation of the last meeting as a conclusion of the European program. PRALINE has been presented as a project with the aim of strengthening and boosting European networks. By learning about good practices in Vocational Training, all the members are determined to continue working together on the internationalization of VET and Continuous learning.
